What would be the primary reason for using a console connection to manage a Cisco device

→ The device has no configuration

What is the most common console speed for Cisco devices

→ 9600

Typing "ls /dev" in FreeBSD (MacOS) provides a listing of what info?

→ The installed/recognized device drivers

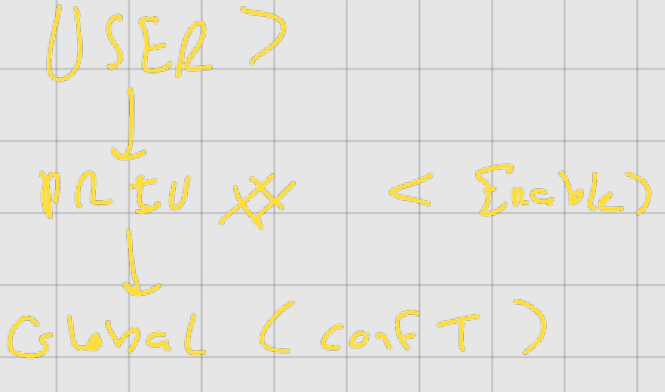

The correct answer to "would you like to enter initial configuration dialog"? is:

→ NO

Which keystroke completes a partially typed command?

→ TAB

Before you can move to the bulk of the configuration modes, you must first enter → Global configuration mode

What command can you use to display the summary status of all the interfaces on Cisco device?

→ Show ip interface brief

Name	IP	Physical layer status	Data link layer status